

Mini 3-gun shoot 30 August 2025

The runner is operational once again after the theft of the motor control system and a short piece of the supply cable. We have rebuilt it all and attempted to make it more difficult to steel.

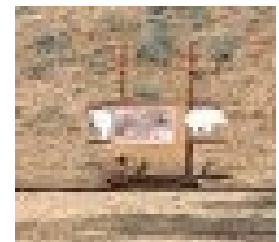

We decided that in place of the Top Gun shoot which was cancelled due to an apparent lack of interest/availability this year, we would offer a mini-3-gun shoot consisting of:

- .22 runner on steel and paper targets
- 9mm pistol runner with hostage
- Shotgun trap

We had quite good participation, 9 shooters shot the .22 and 9mm pistol legs, but only 3 of us went on to shoot the shotgun leg.

We introduced the concept of using steel targets for the runner. This consisted of a BB Turkey and BB Pig with heart and lung scoring zones drawn on them by koky-pen. The hits were painted over ready for the next shooter, of course the score zone lines had to be redrawn as the paint covered over them; this was not too much of an issue. It was fun shooting at the steel because the animals reacted well ringing out a good metallic sound as they were struck and the hits were discernible from the firing point. There still was a paper jackal in the centre.

I was forced into shooting first to show the way and set a benchmark, unfortunately the benchmark set proved only to be aspirational as no one went past it.

The handgun leg consisted of two IPSC normal targets, one above each other to the left and right of the centre set of IPSC mini targets staggered with a hostage (penalty) target between.

This was shoot 8 shots (4 and 4) on the normal targets as they ran from right to left, followed by 8 shots (4 and 4) on the right side two targets as it ran from left to right. The centre targets 2 shots each with the penalty target, it cost you -10 (Least you could score in the centre was 0, no negative carryover to the final score). Some repeated this shoot with .22 handguns which they said was great fun.

Johann Seyffert put up an impressive score; 2 points less that full score, well done Johann.

Dave started out very well with a straight on the first 5 clays; in the end though I managed to get my brain engaged so that Dave and I both ended with 20 out of 25 (80 points), with Anso struggling a bit only scoring 14 kills.
